Town Stookers Are On the Job.

The local volunteer stookers had their first experience on Monday afternoon, when they went out ten strong, to the farm of Hy. Sportell, who has been ill during the summer, and finished stooking his wheat.

They claim they stooked 23 acres in two hours and one local farmer declares that they did a good job.

There was some complaint of sore muscles the next morning and all agreed that two hours was long enough for the start.

The men who made up the party were: Howard Halliday, S. Krueger Eldon Foote, Don Lamont, Clint Reiber, George Law, Ed Ford, Ed. Buhr, Allan Gole, and H. Lynch-Staunton.

They say one other party obtained boots and gloves but at the last minute was not able to go.

Changes for Game Regulations.

Changes in Alberta game regulations which provide for the extension of the season and bag limits for certain types of game were announced Thursday by Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines. The necessary order-in-council has been passed to give effect to the changes.

The partridge season, formerly October and November, has now been extended one month to the end of December in the northern zone only. The bag limit has been extended from 15 to 20 birds a day in the northern

In the southern zone—from Red Deer south—the season remains the same as formerly—two months, October and November. The bag limit in the southern zone is also the same as formerly—15 birds per day.

In the south part of the province duck and geese shooting has been extended to November 28th.

To Send Smokes to "Calgary Tanks"

There is a box in the Johnson and McCloy barber shop to receive contributions to the cigarette fund for the Calgary Tanks.

Every place from where Calgary Tanks were recruited is getting together to send cigarettes to be distributed to the whole Regiment. This gesture is just to show the boys overseas that we over here feel deeply for them and are proud of the part they took in the Dieppe raid.

Italians (bees) Make Second Attack

Jack Robertson of Westcott tells us that about the time Charley Mardon's place was attacked two swarms operated a pincers movement on his place, one swarm landing on a tree close to the house while the other made good an invasion in the walls of the house. The swarm in the tree was promptly disposed of by a local bee raid warden but the one in the house is still in possession of the captured position.

Jack says they are now peaceful and he intends putting in a spigot to drain off the honey.

Receives His "Sparks"

I. A. C. Charles Loader, of Didsbury was one of the class that graduated and received his sparks at the No. 2 R.C.A.F. Wireless School in Calgary on Thursday last.

Pilot officer J. B. "Johnny" Higham, D.F.C., pilot of the bomber crew which blasted Saarbrücken, Germany, landed in Canada 22 hours later, and arrived in Calgary last Thursday noon, presented the badge.

Evangelical Church Notes

The theme on Sunday morning at 10:30 a.m. will be "Nothing too hard for God". Very often when we are in our lowest position in the sight of the world, God lifts us up to heights of glory. "Regeneration" will be the subject at the 7:30 p.m. service.

Regular services will be held at Bethel at 2 p.m.

Duck Season Opens With Good Hunting

Some good bags were recorded on Monday when the duck shooting season opened.

A. G. Studer, Len Berscht, Jay Tuggle and Arnold Bode were one party who went shooting west of town and came in with 42 ducks to their credit. For the most part the ducks shot were good sized mallards and, with the exception of getting stuck with the car, they had a good day.

Alf Studer tells the story of shooting one duck which came down on a barbed wire fence, with the result that its head was cut off.

Ed Watkins and Russel Ady also had good shooting at the Curtis slough north-west of town and they accounted for 19 ducks.

Ration Rules Revised.

Revision of Sugar Rationing regulations now permits consumers to buy one month's supply of sugar at a time, sets September 30th as the final date on which sugar for home canning may be purchased by special voucher, and will adjust the quota system for industrial users, public caterers, and institutions, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board announces.

Consumers may now purchase one month's supply of sugar using coupons one and two to purchase two pounds. Coupons on the temporary ration cards allow purchase of two weeks supply at once. The ration of half a pound of sugar per person per week is the same.

Although coupons are valid after the set date they may not be used before that time, and it is emphasized that anyone still having coupons affixed to temporary ration cards may still use them.

Until the end of September sugar may still be obtained for home canning purposes by voucher, but it must not be used later than October 31. The Board will introduce new provisions in plenty of time for next summer's canning it is stated.

Any seller of sugar may refuse to sell to any person whom he believes has contravened or is attempting to contravene any provision of the order.

Tea, Coffee for 2 weeks allowed:

Coupons for tea or coffee labelled "Spare A" in Ration book 1 are each good for two week's supply. The Wartime Prices and Trade Board states. These coupons become valid at intervals of four weeks. Coupons 1 and 2 are good from September 7, coupons 3 and 4 from October 5th, and so on until February 22, 1943, on and after which coupon 13 may be used. There is no date of expiry of coupons although they may not be used before the set date. Temporary coupons still affixed to some ration cards may still be used.

Each coupon for two weeks supply for each person represents two ounces of tea or eight ounces (half pound) of coffee, or that quantity of coffee concentrate or of a substitute containing coffee normally required to make 25 cups of beverage.

As in the case of sugar, coupon sheets for tea or coffee will be retained by storekeepers who will detach the proper coupons at time of delivery.

Registration of Women.

It is reported that the women in the rural districts are not registering as freely as expected. It is thought that there is some misunderstanding as to who are required to register.

Those required to register are women born in the years 1918 to 1922, whether married or single, who are not in possession of an unemployment registration certificate.

Some have the impression that if they are employed or are living on a farm they do not have to register. The regulations however, are that all women between the specified ages unless holding an unemployment insurance cards of form 411 or 413, must register.

The registration in this district must be made at the local Post Office, and must be made before or on Saturday, September 22nd.

Truck Overturns Didsbury Man Hurt

W. J. McCoy received face and head injuries when a truck overturned Friday night when returning from Penhold.

One of his headlights failed near Bowden and while watching the road from the side window the truck went off the edge and turned over. It was thought at first that his skull was fractured, but his head was just badly bruised. He is recovering in the Didsbury hospital.

Cpl. E. W. Lowrie, who was a farmer at Didsbury previous to his enlistment in the Army has been promoted to the Rank of Sergeant. Sgt. Lowrie is a veteran of the last war and is now attached to No. 131 C.A.(b)T.C., at Camrose, Alta.

Will Organize Air Cadet Unit

The first step towards the organization of an Air Cadet Unit was taken at a meeting held on Tuesday evening.

It was decided to organize a unit at Didsbury and therefore make application to Ottawa for a charter. A committee was appointed with C. E. Reiber as chairman, F. Dunkley as secretary-treasurer, and Ed Ford, Frank Kaufman and Len Berscht as the Executive.

A. W. Reiber, was appointed as Commanding Officer of the unit, and will be assisted by E. Wiggins and C. McLaughlin, all of whom have taken special Cadet work at Currie Field during the summer. Dr. McPherson will be medical officer.

Twenty-five boys between the ages of 15 to 17 will be required to form the unit and the training will cover a period of two years. It is thought that there will be no difficulty in obtaining the required number of recruits.

A Permanent Peace

NO MATTER HOW LONG the present war continues, there can be only one outcome. The nations ranged on the side of the democracies have solemnly pledged to continue the struggle until final victory is attained. If the war should be prolonged, there will no doubt be further peace-offerings from the enemy nations, who may ask for an armistice, with a view to a patched-up peace. As the enemy has undertaken to wage a total war, so must the Allied Nations be just as determined to continue the struggle until the final peace is won. There can be no sentimentalism shown when the curtain is rung down on the final act.

Will Wars Continue?

There is a school of thought that enunciates the view, that inasmuch as from time immemorial there have always been wars, that this curse of humanity must inevitably continue. Within the lifetime of the present generation we have witnessed two world wars, and it is unconceivable to think that we are doomed, either ourselves or our children, to endure another world cataclysm. We are a peaceful people, and as such, why should we be called to defend ourselves from other war-like and predatory nations. We are, however, given to understand from views expressed by prominent statesmen and war leaders that we are now fighting for a permanent peace, and that steps will be taken to make sure that in future the peace will be maintained.

A Policy Needed

The only method by which this high purpose can be attained, would seem to be primarily by a unification of the English-speaking world, and with the aid of the other peace-loving peoples which comprise the United Nations. The man-power and resources of this continent, coupled with the might of the British Empire, should act as a strong deterrent to any act of aggression. It would require a permanent policy and a singleness of purpose to attain this much-desired end. One of the lessons we have learned from this war is that no country, no matter how distant from the seat of trouble, can escape from its terrors. The airplane has annihilated distances, and the world has become shrunken in this respect. Isolationism can be likened to the proverbial ostrich who hides his head in the sand to escape his enemies. Our only hope then is for a new and revised League of Nations that will stand the test of time.

Eggs—White Or Brown

THIS MORNING ON MILLIONS OF BREAKFAST TABLES—

Eggs helped to get the families off to a good start for the day, and in millions of other homes eggs will continue the good work at lunch and dinner. In varied dress—as golden scrambled, poached on toast, hard or soft in their shells, "sunnyside up" with ham, or hidden away in muffins or dessert—eggs are good for us at any meal.

WHAT'S IN AN EGG?

Eggs are rich in iron—one of the minerals our bodies need. Vitamins A and G. Good quality protein—important for children. They contain also some Vitamin D.

STYLES IN SHELLS—

Some people like white shelled eggs while others prefer them brown. The color of the shell is related only to the kind of hen. Leghorns lay white eggs; most other hens lay brown eggs. The color of shell has nothing to do with age, condition or flavor of eggs. Flavor depends mostly on what the hens eat. Grade for grade, white eggs and brown eggs are the same.

YOLKS—LIGHT OR DARK?

Many people think the color of the yolk indicates its "freshness"—the orange ones being older. This is not true for color depends on the hen's food and may vary from light yellow to deep orange and the egg still be of excellent quality.

THE ART OF COOKING EGGS—

High temperatures make egg white tough. Today, the best cook doesn't boil eggs. Instead she puts the egg in cold water, brings it to a boil, covers, and turns off the heat. The egg should stand in the water for three minutes (soft cooked) and 20-25 minutes (hard cooked).

On the vitamin chart, free on postal card request to the Western Division Health League of Canada, 111 Avenue Road, Toronto, you can further explore the importance of eggs in your diet.

The Individual Citizen's Army

A Weekly Column About This And That In Our Canadian Army.
By Alan Maurice Irwin

A suit of battledress, as the only uniform available to a soldier, can be expected to last six months. If it is eked out by the issue of a cotton drill uniform in the summer the length of time before replacement becomes necessary is lengthened by a few weeks. When, in addition, a soldier is issued with a "walking out" uniform to wear in the fall and winter months the battle-dress can be expected to last at least nine months.

What is all that about? You ask. Just that when you are clothing or equipping an army you think of durability, utility, and the public purse. The main idea is to give each soldier everything he needs—but nothing more than that.

Which is a good target for us soldiers in the Individual Citizen's Army to aim at. In other words, let's buy only what we need and preserve what we have.

There are many organizations in the Army charged with seeing that soldiers have everything they need, that they take care of what they have and that what is no longer usable for its primary purpose is salvaged for some other use.

We have dealt, from time to time with the Ordnance Corps, the "Q", or Quartermaster-General's branch and the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps but so far we haven't got down to the housekeepers of the different units yet.

These "housekeepers" are the Quarter-Master sergeants. There are two varieties, Regimental Quarter-Master Sergeants and Company Quarter-Master Sergeants. I nearly forgot the top man, the Quarter-Master who is the responsible commissioned officer in each unit.

The unit organization is: Quarter-master, a commissioned officer, who is usually a captain; R.Q.M.S., a warrant officer, second class and a Squadron, Battery, or Company Quarter-Master Sergeant who is the senior non-commissioned officer of the company ranking next below the Company Sergeant-Major.

These men function as a supply service for the unit and are responsible for obtaining all arms, clothing, equipment and rations for the men in their care. But, and this is a big "but", they are also responsible for the care, maintenance and return of those articles or for a satisfactory explanation of clearance of them.

Thus through this chain of responsibility, the people's purse is watched, care is taken of the people's property used or worn by the soldiers and provision is made through the chain of responsibility for the collection and return to the Salvage Branch, R.C.O.C., of used or worn articles that can be repaired or otherwise salvaged.

"If it's good enough for the Army, it's good enough for the taxpayer." That would be a good motto for us to adopt. Then, conversely, "If it's not good enough for the taxpayer, it's not good enough for the Army," must be true, too.

That refers to material things. As regards the preservation and conservation of material things the Army can show the rest of us the way.

A full record of everything issued is kept in the Company and Regimental Quarter-Master's store. That record shows just when Pte. John Canuck was issued with his coat or his battle-dress or his boots. It records the loss by Pte. Canuck of any of his equipment—and passed that information to the Paymaster so that deductions can be made.

Do we do that in our homes?

In other words are we taking enough care of what we have to enable us to play our part in blocking the infiltration of inflation forces? Or are we rushing off to the store to buy something we don't need because the style has changed—or because we just plain want it?

I heard an indignant citizen (feminine) say the other day that she saw dresses in a window that "certainly had not been simplified." Sure! Why not? There are still many retailers who have clothes in stock that were manufactured before the simplification orders were made. Are these to be wasted? 2480

These are the things we must guard against. Turn that spare money for a new suit or coat into War savings, or save it for war taxes—in other words, do as the army does, make what you have last by taking care of it, by buying carefully in the first place.

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board has stated emphatically that the rationing of clothes is not imminent. But that does not mean we should go on buying sprees. It means that we should be good enough soldiers of the Individual Citizen's Army to ration ourselves.

The World of Wheat

by H. G. L. Strange

Recently I was able to visit a number of prairie farmers. I found that many wheat growers at request of the government, had taken up pig production for the first time. Many different methods of pig management were to be seen but some of it unquestionably was bad. On some farms pigs were born hairless, a good percentage of the litter had died and the remainder were not doing so well.

It is obvious that many wheat growers are not aware of the latest up-to-date labor-saving methods of pig feeding and management. Those who are handling pigs for the first time should, therefore, I suggest, make special efforts to find out from their nearest Experimental Farm or University or Provincial Department of Agriculture or, from their District Agricultural Representative, the methods of feeding and management that would best suit the nature of their individual farms and the feed they actually have on hand.

I am sure that many young pigs now being lost can be saved, that the quantity of grain now being fed can be cut down and that much labor now expended in hauling food and water by hand can be avoided. Sows and litters require sunshine and exercise; growing pigs need sunshine and suitable food, and above all lots of good clean water.

Following factors have tended to decrease supply or increase demand: Turkey and Greece have recently received grain from overseas -- Crop yields in central and south-eastern Europe were below normal this year -- Canada has agreed to ship Russia 9 million bushels of Hard Spring Wheat and Flour.

Following factors have tended to increase supply or decrease demand: Crop prospects in Canada and Australia continue excellent -- U.S. crop returns for winter and spring wheat are higher than for many years -- Crop yields in the United Kingdom and Western Europe this year were above yields of last year.

Reduce the Accident Toll on Highways

Sharp decrease in fatal motor accidents on Alberta main highways so far this year has stimulated the work of those engaged in promoting safety driving measures.

Recently, Edmonton inaugurated a safety week, during which police and other officials stressed the necessity of careful driving and the need of checking up on cars to make sure that they were in good condition. Officials drew particular attention to brake testing as this plays a major part in checking accidents.

Officials of the Alberta Motor Association have over a long period contended that sane, safe driving would tend to reduce the accident toll.

Since the Federal government brought the 40-mile speed limit into force on all highways in the dominion, the result has been a decrease in accidents. In Alberta, there was a 50 per cent decrease in the number of motor accidents that involved damages in excess of $25 in the three months' period ended June 30th.

Other provinces also report that the number of accidents have decreased. While it is recognized that the need of tire conservation and a smaller number of cars on the highway were factors, doubtless the 40-mile speed limit has been a major factor.

Corned Beef Is Sent to Prisoners

To determine stocks of corned beef on hand throughout the province, a survey has been made by the Edmonton regional office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. The survey applies to wholesale and retail stores, the latter being requested to return their stocks to the wholesale.

The purpose of the Board in freezing stocks of corned beef on hand is to enable the Red Cross Society to provide this highly nutritive food to prisoners of war. Corned beef is also supplied to the navy, to the merchant

Fighting Talk

The following is a speech which was made to Victory Loan workers in Boston, Mass., on April 4th, 1918. If it was applicable then it is infinitely more so now.

"When a man tells you he has subscribed all the money he has and has no more money to put into bonds, he is ignorant. He has more money. It is your task to educate him to find that money. He can find that money by changing his habits of life. It is for you to show him it is better for him voluntarily to change his habits of life than to have the Germans compel him to change them to a greater degree.

"Money is the bookkeeping side of handling materials and labor. All the money in the world will do nothing except shift materials and labor from one use to another. When you obtain money for the Government through subscriptions to bonds, you obtain command of materials and labor, never forget that. Although you are ostensibly soliciting money, you are actually getting materials and labor, goods and services.

"You have the greatest task in this State. Unless you succeed in educating the public to provide war materials and labor in stupendous quantities, the work of all other agencies will be void and of no effect. You are to furnish goods and services to back our fighting men.

"When a man tells you that he has already bought all the bonds that he can buy, then your job begins."

First Case of Sugar
Hoarding in Alberta

First prosecution under the enforcement council of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in Alberta, took place on July 17, in Drumheller Police court, when Silvio Reuben, Italian coal miner of Aerial, Alberta, was fined $120 and costs of $3.75 with alternative of three months in jail, for hoarding 60 lbs. of sugar.

DYNAMIC LANGUAGE

American English, says the New York Times is dynamic, and in particular newspaper English. The story of an air raid by our own people or the R.A.F.—not one of the gigantic 1,000-plane attacks, but a routine performance—is likely to begin thus: "Roaring out in massed formation over Western France yesterday Allied planes blasted Nazi factories and airdromes."

LESSON BEING TAUGHT

It is the first time for over a century that the Germans have been made to learn in their own land what war means; and the taste and memory of that very bitter medicine is an indispensable condition of a really permanent peace. There can be no permanent peace until all nations—and the Germans most of all—realize that those who take the sword shall perish by the sword.

Easier Than Housework

Women In Eastern Ontario War Plant Like Their Job

Working with 440-pound aluminum cuttings is easier than doing the family washing. It is so easy that a 27-year-old girl who handles such cuttings in an Eastern Ontario war plant has complained to her foreman that she has not enough to do.

The young woman is one of approximately 550 women in the plant. Like her partner on the same job she comes from a nearby farm. The pair do some of the heavier work in the plant, and they like it. "It's easy," says the 27-year-old. "Easier than hanging up the wash. How come? Well, you don't have a derrick to lift a basket of wet clothes." Another is a pretty 17-year-old lassie with Irish eyes, hailing from a farm 18 miles away, who pushes 350-pound ingots as easily as her married sister would push a baby carriage.

Built on the site of a race-track, the plant in which these women work boasts 300 acres of land but very few trees. In planning its three buildings, which now cover 14 acres, the management ordered the architect to change his design rather than destroy an old maple which towers above all the other trees in the neighborhood.

Within its walls 2,300 employees turn 80,000,000 pounds of aluminum into propeller forgings, wings and body sheet metal, and other parts for the machines of war.

In their blue overalls, maroon blouses, figured bandanas, and safety shoes, the 550 girls may look pretty much alike, but the likeness is only on the surface. Even their accents are different. From as far west as Vancouver and as far east as the British Isles, they run the gamut from university girls to waitresses, housewives to school-teachers, farm girls to filing clerks.

KNEW DESERT WELL

Death by accident of Lieutenant-General H. E. Gott, commander of the British 13th Corps in Egypt, is a great loss to Britain. He was acknowledged to be the British Army's foremost authority on the Western Desert. General Gott once said of the desert in North Africa: "To him who knows it, it can be a fortress; to him who does not it can be a death-trap."

HOME SERVICE

LUXURIOUS DRAPES TO MAKE YOURSELF

Swags, Cascades Easy To Sew

If you have yearned to treat your living room to really stunning draperies this lovely triple-swag style is your chance.

For you can make it all yourself, inexpensively. The swags are easy, so are the cascades which smartly finish the corners.

You might make the main swag of luscious apricot saten, matching the side draperies, and the smaller swags of brown.

The main swag should be cut nearly twice as deep as it will be when folded and several inches wider than the window.

Cut the smaller one on the same plan, allowing of course for the smaller space to be covered. To shape swags, slant ends, then curve the lower edges as the diagram shows.

Brown fringe makes a smart trimming. Stitch it on, then fold and tack swags to valance board.

Now—the graceful cascades. For each, take a 22-by-14 inch piece of fabric, snip off corner and pleat. Simple—but lovely!

For details of making curtains see our 32-page booklet, Gives diagrammed directions, for swags, cascades, side draperies; for stunning styles in glass curtains, drapery-curtains and formal draperies, valances.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "New Ideas in Making Curtains and Draperies" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

THERE WAS A REASON

For the past several months soldiers at Camp Robinson, Arkansas, have been trying to grow grass on a barren camp lot. Finally they abandoned the task and dug up the lot. Just below the surface they found the concrete floor of an old shower room.

CHAPTER II.

Carol Beldon looked prettier than ever, in her latest frock, at the Sailing Club dance that evening. When she passed by the table where Clem and Kay Miniver were sitting, she paused and said:

"I was rather looking for your son to be here."

"His present principles forbid such frivolity," said Clem.

"Oh, that's too bad," said Carol, eyes twinkling responsively.

"We give this phase a week or two at the outside," said Mrs. Miniver.

"I'm afraid that will be too late for me," rejoined Carol. "I'm going to Scotland tomorrow. I wanted to tell him I was sorry about this afternoon."

At that very moment, a waiter approached with a folded bit of paper. Carol took it wonderingly, opened it and read: "May I see you for a moment alone? I am waiting on the old boat landing, Vincent Miniver."

"I suppose it is," answered Carol. "Will you please excuse me?"

Vin was standing with folded hands and solemn mien as Carol approached. "Miss Beldon," he began. "I don't want you to think I'm going back on anything I said this afternoon, but I did express myself a bit emphatically. I hope you'll excuse me."

"There's really nothing to excuse," said Carol. "Everyone's entitled to his mode of expression. Besides, I was in the wrong anyway." The sound of dance music swept down with the breeze, and she added: "I must get back. I promised this tango."

Vin felt an odd clutching fear. "Oh,

I'm sorry," he said. "There's so much I wanted to talk to you about."

"You don't dance?" asked Carol politely.

"Well, yes, I do," said Vin awkwardly. "But I've rather given it up. I mean, frankly, is this a time for frivolity?"

"Is this a time to lose one's sense of humor?" rejoined Carol.

Ten minutes later, the Minivers, glancing casually across the dance floor were astonished to see their sociological son dancing, quite oblivious to everything, with Lady Beldon's granddaughter. When the couple parted, at the end of the evening and Carol explained that she had to leave on a visit to Scotland the next morning, Vin asked permission to write. He couldn't himself analyze his interest in this girl of aristocratic lineage, but he felt a sense of frustration at the news that she was going away.

The weeks sped by. The news from the Continent was distinctly disturbing, but most Kentish Englishmen, of upper, lower and middle class alike regarded it not too pessimistically, as a storm signal that would in due season give way to clearing skies. Certainly there could not be another war so soon after 1918, not really another major conflict. And yet the element of doubt was constantly mounting. The crisis seemed close.

Sitting in the church pew next to his father and mother for morning services, Vin looked up in surprised elation as Carol came down the aisle with Lady Beldon, a trailing, chauffeur carrying a hymn book, Bible and blanket.

"She wasn't to have returned for another week," whispered Vin.

During the singing of the opening hymn, the vergers entered the chancel through a side door and came over to whisper to the vicar. The conversation continued after the last bar of music had sounded. Then the vicar rising solemnly, said:

"Will everyone please be seated?"

He looked about and after only a brief hesitation continued: "It has just been announced over the air by the Prime Minister that our country is at war."

There was scarcely any audible reaction from the congregation. Clem put his hand on his wife's. Other couples engaged in similar gestures.

Carol looked tenderly and meaningfully toward Vin.

"In the circumstances," went on the vicar, "I do not think you will want me to proceed with the service, as you will probably have other duties to perform. I will say merely this, that the prayer for peace still lives in our hearts, coupled now with the prayer for our beloved country. We in this village have not failed in the past. Our forefathers for a thousands years fought for the freedom that we now enjoy, and that we must now defend again. With God's help and their example, we shall not fail."

For Toby and Judy the news was mysteriously exciting rather than malevolent. They had heard all kinds of rumors about what might happen if war broke out; as Clem came up the path from the church, Toby seized his arm and asked: "Are we going to be bombed, daddy?"

Others within earshot, who had mentally been voicing the same question, exchanged grave looks.

Foley, the affectedly gruff, rather grouse-colored individual, who had been hurriedly appointed Air Warden for the district, found himself sternly rebuffed in the first joust with Lady Beldon, who had little use for the maneuverings of Downing Street. With the Minivers the situation was different, for Clem had immediately volunteered for river patrol duty, and co-operation need not be sought out.

The first drill was scheduled for that evening. As the family had gathered in the cellar, after trying vainly to console Gladys for the call to duty of her fiancé, Horace, a stomping was heard above. Hurrying to the door, Clem found Foley there. He was rigged up with tin hat and canvas haversack, and he complained that the house was showing a light. Rushing to the cellar like an alert bird dog, he pounced on a chair and put his flashlight on a grating just below the ceiling. Then he pulled over a wooden case to cover it.

"There!" he cried. "That fixes it. It's those tiny cracks that can do the damage! One man lightin' a cigarette in the road stands out like a beacon from five thousand feet up. One little crack 'o light might lead the 'ole German Air Force straight to this house!"

Vin hurried away from the scene of Mr. Foley's dress review to see if he could offer any help at the Beldon home. He felt a closer bond, with Carol, than ever before, although it had scarcely been delineated in actual words. When he had left her home, however, he had kissed her for the first time; and when he reached his own home he had arrived at a personal decision. His mother had expected it might come, but at least not so suddenly.

"Kay darling," said her husband, after Vin had gone upstairs. "I know it's hard, but you wouldn't care to have a son who didn't want to fight for his country?"

Mrs. Miniver seemed dry-eyed, but she was holding a handkerchief to her lips. "His country!" she echoed. "What's Poland got to do with us?"

INDIVIDUALLY WRAPPED

Used To Atlantic

Small-Sized Freighters Came To This Country From Other Side

It is now revealed, says the Brockville Recorder and Times that nearly 70 St. Lawrence canal-sized freighters have been turned over to the Admiralty for salt-water service. If it be doubted that they are capable of such duty, it need only be recalled that most of these vessels, small though they are, were built abroad and crossed the Atlantic to this continent under their own power. Many of them are, moreover, larger than the small-type tramp steamers which ply regularly in ocean service.

Are Not Taxed

War Savings Certificates Do Not Come Under Head Of Income

Holders of government bonds will receive their full coupon interest, or, if registered, their full interest cheque, without income tax deduction at the source. But this income will be taxable when the taxpayer is making his final settlement with the government. War Savings Certificates, on the other hand, accumulate interest over a period of seven and a half years so that at maturity a bond which cost $1 will bring $5, but this increase in value is non-taxable.—Toronto Star.

LADIES GROUP CONSERVE TEA AND COFFEE

Try Different Drink at Meeting

Neither coffee nor tea were served, as is the usual custom, at the quarterly meeting of the local Ladies Aid, but an excellent beverage was used, and the guests commented upon its delicious flavor. The president explained that the ban on tea and coffee was in deference to the request of the Government. Expressing satisfaction at the success of the experiment, the chairman said Postum, the beverage used, had taken less sugar than would have been used for tea and coffee. It had cost less than either tea or coffee and so was a saving to the treasury, as well as a saving on tea, coffee, sugar.

Whether it's a meeting of a society or a meal in your own home, Postum provides the easy way to conserve tea and coffee. Grand, heartening flavor—economical—so easy to make.
